

SALT AIR TRAIN STRIKES CHILD

Le Roy Lambert, While Attempting to Cross Track, Receives Serious Injuries.

RECOVERY IS PREDICTED

RIGHT ARM IS SEVERED FROM BODY.

LeRoy Lambert, the 18-month-old son of Clarence Lambert, living at 17 South Fifth West street, was struck by an inbound Saltair train at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening at Fifth West and South Temple streets. The lad's right arm was cut off at the shoulder, and his body is a mass of bruises and cuts. He also has a scalp wound, which required several stitches. He was taken to the L. D. S. hospital soon after the accident, where Dr. J. S. Richards dressed the wounds. At midnight the boy was resting well. He will recover from his injuries.

The lad has been in the habit of going to South Temple street to see the trains go by, but has never before attempted to cross the track. Last evening he started across the Saltair railroad tracks when the train was but a few feet away. The lad seemingly realized his danger, turned and started back, but was struck before he had time to clear the track.

Engineer Scott was in charge of the locomotive, and made every effort to stop, but the child was so close to the engine that it was impossible to bring the engine to a standstill before striking him.

How the child escaped with his life is a mystery. His right arm is gone, and his scalp is cut in several places. His body is black and blue from being dragged along the track.

Dr. D. Cassidy happened to be on the train, and at once went to the child's assistance. The little fellow was picked up and carried to his home, about 150 feet away, and not once did he utter a sound. Dr. Cassidy performed an operation on the arm and stopped the flow of blood. About an hour later the boy was taken to the hospital in the ambulance, and the wound properly attended. Not until the temporary dressing at the boy's home, was over did he seem to realize how badly he was hurt, and it was only then that he began to cry.

Dr. Richards said last evening that the child would recover.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

Preparations for the beginning of the school year at the state university will be made at a faculty meeting to be held for that purpose on Monday at 10:30 o'clock. Professors and instructors who have been out of town during the summer have now returned, and all, it is expected, will report for duty at this meeting. The regular work of the university does not begin till a week from Monday, on Sept. 14, out students will register this week on Friday and Saturday, and entrance examinations will be held on Wednesday and Thursday.

The state school of mines of the university will issue this week the first of a series of bulletins to deal with the materials used in the various industries of Utah. The plan behind the bulletins is to make the equipment of the university laboratories and the learning and skill of the university instructors practical service in the building up of the state. This first bulletin deals with the various kinds of building bricks manufactured in Utah, and is the result of a series of about 2,000 tests made in the mechanical laboratory last year under the supervision of Professor E. H. Beckstrand of the department of mechanical engineering. The tests were made on bricks manufactured by all parts of the state and by every method now in common use. In the tests the university had the co-operation of the owners of the brickyards, who furnished materials for the tests. By machines prepared especially for the purpose the bricks were tested for their tensile, crushing and shearing strength, for their power to resist freezing and thawing and to absorb water, and for their chemical composition. The results showed a wide variation in the qualities of the bricks tested. Of general interest are the comparisons drawn that bricks are stronger than pressed brick, and that machine-made bricks (practically all bricks nowadays are machine-made) is far superior, especially in weathering power, to hand rolled brick. The next bulletin of the series, to be issued soon, will deal with the road materials used in the state.

GLITTERING COSTUMES ARE BEING PREPARED FOR FLOWER FESTIVAL

In hundreds of homes in Salt Lake mothers are busily engaged upon the glittering costumes which their children will wear in the entertainments of the Salt Lake flower festival, which begins Sept. 17 and will last two weeks. As about 2,000 children will take part in the ballets and spectacles of the ten carnival entertainments, there has been an enormous demand in the Salt Lake stores of the various dainty fabrics and the bits of tinsel with which carnival garments are made.

With each rehearsal under Professor Agostini the children have improved, and now there is no doubt that all the features they will present will be successfully carried out. Among these will be "The Dawn of Christianity," 250 children; "The Silver Spray Ballet," 200 children; "A Night in Japan," 200 in cast; "The Gainsborough Double Sextette," twenty-four in cast; "Love's Young Dream," sixteen in cast; "Pocahontas and the Indians," fifty in cast, and the "Norwegian Marriage Festival," fifty in the cast.

Singers who are to take part in the presentation of selections from the operas are also rehearsing and getting their costumes together. In "Il Trovatore" Mrs. Emma Ramsey Morris, Miss Nora Eliason and George D. Pyper will be assisted by a chorus of forty voices. In the ballets and spectacles, Miss Hazel Taylor, John D. Spencer, Horace S. Egan and M. J. Brines will be assisted by a chorus of forty in presenting "The Bohemian Girl."

"La Carmencita," adapted from the opera "Carmen," will be presented by Mrs. Morris, Miss Edna Evans, Hugh W. Douglas and Fred Graham, assisted by a chorus of thirty-two.

Miss Charbel Gardner, Miss Valeria Jacobs, Miss Lottie Brain, Winslow Smith, Thomas Ashworth, M. J. Thomas and George A. Smith, Jr., will present "The Gainsborough Double Sextette." The entertainments on Sept. 17, 18 and 19 will be given at the Salt Lake theatre. From Sept. 22, the day of the "flower parade," to Sept. 26, the entertainments will be at Odeon hall.

WEATHER IS HOT AS EVER

Thermometer Reaches Mark of 91 Degrees—No Change Promised for Today.

Yesterday's weather was of the real, genuine summer type. There wasn't any suggestion of fall or approaching dropping of autumn leaves about it. It was summer weather. The thermometer went up to 91, officially. The street temperature easily bent these several levels over the hundred mark. Following the somewhat moderate conditions of the last week, the excessive heat of yesterday was felt to a degree which was uncomfortable in the extreme. There was a feeling of closeness in the air, although the relative humidity up to a late hour in the afternoon had not exceeded the 20 per cent mark. In the early evening the oppressiveness of the atmosphere was more noticeable.

It is quite probable that the high temperature will continue at least a day. That is on account of the fact that there is a low barometric pressure, with intense heat in Arizona, and when that phenomenon occurs in Arizona it is a pretty safe bet that the heat is going to be pushed off up this way.

INSURANCE LAW WANTED

Life Underwriters Preparing Data for the Legislature.

Life underwriters assert it is practically certain that the next legislature will enact a law covering the important details of life insurance. The legislative committee of the Utah Association of Life Underwriters is already actively engaged in securing data and facts to submit to both legislative bodies, and hopes to secure in this session an earlier consideration of the matter than two years ago, when the rush of business at the last moment resulted in the failure of important plans. The life insurance men will ask but few changes in the measure proposed and favored two years ago, as they believe it covers nearly all the vital needs.

HOWELL LEADS IN CLOSE FIGHT

Congressional Race of Republicans Increases in Interest as Convention Approaches.

COUNTY PRIMARIES HELD

INDEPENDENTS WORKING FOR CHRISTENSEN'S NOMINATION.

With the state convention ten days away, the interest of the Republicans of the state is on the congressional fight. Until recently Howell has had everything his own way in the race, and he still has a good start on his only active opponent, Parley P. Christensen. An independent Republican who has made several campaigns throughout the state said that as things were at present Howell was practically sure of 241 delegates and Christensen of the remaining 267. The state convention, which meets in Salt Lake on Sept. 15, will consist of 608 delegates, requiring 305 votes to nominate a candidate. If the politicians' figures are accurate, Howell has a few votes to spare.

Friends of Mr. Christensen, however, have not given up the fight, and hope to be able to make the necessary trades with counties who have aspirants for state office to secure enough delegates to nominate Christensen. At present delegates have been elected from Cache, Summit, Sanpete, Juab, Millard, Beaver and Wayne counties. Howell has the Cache and Wayne delegations solid, while Christensen will have practically the entire vote of Sanpete. The other counties are divided.

The insurgents have considered bringing out either Benner X. Smith or George N. Lawrence at the proper time in order to beat both Howell and Christensen. Both of these men deny that they are candidates for the place. However, there is still the possibility that one or the other of them will be sprung at the "dark horse" of the convention.

Howell's strength lies in the support of the federal machine. The opponents of the Smoot machine are lined up for Christensen, because of the fact that the machine men are supporting Howell. Howell is on the slate provided for the convention to nominate, and for him the machine will, if necessary, fight the hardest. The others in the Smoot machine, however, are not so solid. Howell-Spy combination are said to be C. S. Tinney of Juab, for secretary of state; W. M. McCarty of Sevier, for justice of the supreme court; David Mattson of Weber, for state treasurer; Walter Calderwood of Summit, for state auditor; Willard Hanson of Salt Lake, for attorney general. If these candidates can deliver the delegations of the counties to which they are accredited to each other the success of the state is, of course, assured. The Christensen combination is said to include Herbert E. Smith of Sanpete for state treasurer, A. H. Jukes of Emery for state auditor and A. R. Barnes of Salt Lake for attorney general.

One of the arguments made by the friends of Christensen in working for his nomination for congress is that his nomination will add strength to the Republican ticket in Salt Lake county, and make it possible for the Republicans to retain control of the county. Another is that the Democrats are working for the nomination of Howell, because they believe that he is the easier of the two to defeat.

DOGS KILL MANY CHICKENS

Unlicensed, Unbridled and Unscrupulous Canines Source of Annoyance.

William Pickins of 1271 South Twelfth East street has lost thirty-five chickens, seven within the last two weeks. Having been bereft of his broilers, Mr. Pickins is indignant.

Mr. Pickins lays the blame on the dog. Not on any particular dog, but on dogs in general and countless in number. So decimated became Mr. Pickins' herd of chickens, and so fast did the dog-killing increase, that Mr. Pickins felt it his duty to enter a vigorous protest. So did Mr. Pickins' neighbors, whose fowls have also gone the way of all poor little chickens when a dog with a taste for poultry runs amok.

Mr. Pickins and his neighbors believe the dogcatcher is not doing his duty. They believe, too, that the license department of the city administration is not doing its duty. It is high time, they assert, that there be fewer unlicensed dogs permitted to run at large in his section of the city.

THIEF MAY BE CRAZY MAN

Peculiar Actions of Man With Stolen Bicycle Lead to Suspicion of Unbalanced Mind.

Henry Shutter, motorman on the Murray line, reported to the police Saturday afternoon that a strange man had thrown a bicycle over the fence on State street, near Murray, and boarded the car. The man left the car at Murray and ran eastward toward the mountains. The fellow told Shutter he had been riding for two days without anything to eat.

Soon after Shutter had left the station, F. E. Merrill reported to the police that his bicycle had been stolen from the Commercial block. He gave a description of the missing bicycle, which tallied with the wheel the motorman had seen thrown over the fence on State street. An officer brought the bicycle to the police station. It was the stolen "bike."

The man who threw the wheel over the fence is thought by the motorman to be insane. He acted in a queer manner on the car, and as soon as the car stopped he started off toward the mountains on a run. The officers of Murray have been notified to look out for the man, but at midnight he had not been found. He is described as being about five feet eight inches tall, weight 150 pounds, of light complexion, smooth-shaven, wearing light trousers and black coat and hat.
